Dear Friends in Christ,

The great season of Christmas comes to an end this Sunday with the Baptism of the Lord. It seems strange perhaps that we end this season reflecting on an event 30 years into the future from His birth. Yet in many ways this is a fitting end. For from this physical birth on Christmas, He now experiences a spiritual birth of sorts as the Holy Spirit comes down upon Him. As well, we do not know much of the life of Christ between His birth and His baptism.; His younger days are hidden from us. For He lived like you and I. So we jump ahead to the beginning of His real mission through His baptism and being sent out into the world. We too are called forth from the warmth and joy of this Christmas season to be instruments of salvation for others. Today is a moment to reflect on the promises of our own baptism and renew our fidelity to the Lord. It is not enough to believe. We must also follow.

Our Women's Day of Recollection was a great success. Thanks to Mercedes Hollcraft and Dan and his team for helping put it all together. The Men's Day of Recollection is this Saturday and there is still time to sign up!

In other news, many of you may have heard of or seen a recent film on Netflix called "The Two Popes." It is definitely an attractive film but it should come as well with some serious caveats as it creates a bit of a false narrative. Auxiliary Bishop Robert Barron of Los Angeles explains why in his recent review of the film:

"The new and much-ballyhooed Netflix film, The Two Popes, should by rights, be called The One Pope, for it presents a fairly nuanced, textured, and sympathetic portrait of Jorge Mario Bergoglio (Pope Francis) and a complete caricature of Joseph Ratzinger (Pope Benedict XVI). This imbalance fatally undermines the movie, whose purpose, it seems, is to show that old grumpy, legalistic Benedict finds his spiritual bearings through the ministrations of friendly, forward-looking Francis. But such a thematic trajectory ultimately does violence to both figures, and turns what could have been a supremely interesting character study into a predictable and tedious apologia for the filmmaker's preferred version of Catholicism . . .

"... But the most serious mischaracterization occurs toward the end of the film when a dispirited Benedict, resolved to resign the papacy, admits that he had stopped hearing the voice of God and that he had begun to hear it again only through his newfound friendship with Cardinal Bergoglio! Mind you, in saying the following I mean not an ounce of disrespect to the real Pope Francis, but that one of the most intelligent and spiritually alert Catholics of the last one hundred years would require the intervention of Cardinal Bergoglio in order to hear the voice of God is beyond absurd. From beginning to end of his career, Ratzinger/Benedict has produced some of the most spiritually luminous theology in the great tradition. That he was, by 2012, tired and physically ill, and that he felt incapable of governing the great apparatus of the Catholic Church—yes, of course. But that he was spiritually lost—no way. Again, it might be a fantasy of some on the left that 'conservatives' hide their spiritual bankruptcy behind a veneer of rules and authoritarianism, but one would be hard pressed indeed to apply this hermeneutic to Joseph Ratzinger."

If you would like to read the whole review you can find it here - <https://www.wordonfire.org/resources/article/the-one-pope/26140/>.

May the Holy Spirit be your guiding light.

Many Thanks from Parishioner, Mariah Hernandez

Hello fellow parishioners, my name is Mariah Hernandez and I am so blessed and thankful that I got to experience an amazing trip to SLS20 in Phoenix, Arizona. A month ago, I requested your help with expenses for this trip. It was truly life changing and helped me grow more in my faith while getting to meet so many young and knowledgeable college students who share the same love for our Church as I do. I'd like to thank everyone who contributed to helping this become possible for me; as well as all of you who simply prayed and reached out to me as acts of kindness and love for this big moment of my life. Thank you all and praise God!
